

Stress Management

Who should attend this one day course

Anyone suffering from the effects of stress in the workplace together with line managers wishing to understand the HSE management standards, support staff experiencing stress & reduce working days lost through stress.

Introducing Faiers Training

Faiers Training uses twenty-one years of experience in the care & support sector to deliver training that is both professional & practical.

COURSE OVERVIEW

More than half of all working days lost per year in Britain are due to stress, anxiety or depression. This essentially practical course enables workers to identify the likely sources of their own stress and understand measures that can help manage stress and ensure a healthy and productive work environment.

COURSE CONTENTS

- What is Stress? – The differences between pressure & stress.
- Symptoms and effects of stress – How to identify stress indicators and understand the impact of stress on emotional & physical health, behaviour, performance etc.
- Knowing ourselves – Understanding personality types, fight or flight responses, internal and external stressors and recognising personal stress triggers both within & outside of the workplace.
- Lifestyle Balance – Getting a healthy balance, too little/too much stimuli, balancing work, rest and play and learning how to relax.
- Helping ourselves – Internal resources, coping mechanisms, nine strategies for tackling stress at work, sources of help etc.
- Tackling Stress: The Management Standards Approach – A look at the standards developed by the HSE.
